Dear Reader,

“Of the making of many books,” the sage of Ecclesiastes once noticed, “there is no end.”

It would be paltering with the truth to say that he was entirely happy about this state of affairs. But then he had not seen the latest Encounter catalogue. I feel sure it would have gladdened his heart. “Good stuff,” he would probably have said, “I like it.”

I hope that you’ll like it, too. We have an especially strong and enticing roster of new titles this season. The full story is laid out in bracing detail in the pages that follow. Before you dive in, though, let me mention just a few highlights.

- ▶ The rise of militant Islam has traumatized the world. But it is increasingly clear that the real solution to radical Islam must come from within Islam itself. In The Challenge of Islamic Reform, journalist Christine Douglass-Williams interviews the foremost moderate and reformist Muslims in the Western world and shows how an Islam that is both orthodox and yet genuinely peaceful, tolerant, pluralistic, and compatible with secular governance, freedom of speech, and the equality before the law can be built. This unsparing and honest account of the obstacles and opportunities Muslims of good will face will be an essential text for understanding the future Islam in the West.
- ▶ The surprise victory of Donald Trump in the 2016 presidential election set conventional wisdom on its head. What does the rise of Trump mean for the American Republic? America in the Age of Trump has the answer. In this savvy and refreshingly non-ideological study, Douglas E. Schoen and Jessica Tarlov go beyond the usual clichés and show how the eclipse of economic opportunity and myriad social crises led to a collapse of trust in government and fueled the movement that brought Donald Trump to the forefront of American politics.
- ▶ In our “destined to be a classic” category you’ll find Gene Dattel’s Reckoning with Race, an impassioned, deeply informed, and unflinching investigation of America’s most intractable social problem: race. Dattel takes the reader back to the beginning of the nineteenth century and traces the complex evolution of America’s experience with race up to the present. After emancipation, how were blacks historically segregated from the rest of American society? Why is self-segregation still a feature of black society? Why did the removal of overt legal segregation and civil rights legislation in the 1960s not settle the racial conundrum? What, finally, should be done to eliminate the racial divide?

These are just a few of Encounter’s new titles. Please take a look in the pages that follow for our complete list of this season’s offerings as well as our extensive back list. And don’t miss our storied series of pamphlets, Encounter BroadSides, or our new pamphlet series Encounter Intelligence.

Thank you for your continued support of Serious Books for Serious Readers.

Godspeed,

FOREWORD BY GOVERNOR HOWARD
DEAN AND SENATOR MIKE LEE

DC Confidential

Inside the Five Tricks of Washington

YOU THINK YOU KNOW why our government in Washington is broken, but you really don't. You think it's broken because politicians curry favor with special interests and activists of the left or the right. There's something to that and it helps explain why these politicians can't find common ground, but it misses the root cause. A half century ago, elected officials in Congress and the White House figured out a new system for enacting laws and spending programs—one that lets them take the credit for promising good news while avoiding the blame for producing bad results. With five key tricks, politicians of both parties now avoid accounting to us for what the government actually does to us.

While most people understand that these politicians seem to pull rabbits out of hats, hardly anyone sees the sleight of hand by which they get away with their tricks. Otherwise, their tricks wouldn't work. DC Confidential exposes the sleights of hand. Once they are brought to light, we can stop the tricks, fix our broken government, and make Washington work for us once again.

This book explains the necessary reform and lays out an action plan to put it in place. Stopping the tricks would be a constructive, inclusive response to the anger that Americans from across the political spectrum feel toward what should be our government.

DAVID SCHOENBROD was a leader of the Natural Resources Defense Council during the 1970s, heading campaigns to get the lead out of gasoline, protect the environment in Puerto Rico, and protect New Yorkers from automotive air pollution. Now, he is Trustee Professor of Law at New York Law School. Schoenbrod has frequently contributed to the editorial pages of the Wall Street Journal, the New York Times, and other newspapers and periodicals. He lives in New York City.

Education Invasion | Joy Pullman

How Common Core Fights Parents for Control of American Kids

MOST AMERICANS had no idea what Common Core was in 2013, according to polls. But it had been creeping into schools nationwide over the previous three years, and children were feeling its effects. They cried over math homework so mystifying their parents could not help them, even in elementary school. They read motley assortments of “informational text” instead of classic literature. They dreaded the high-stakes tests, in unfamiliar formats, that were increasingly controlling their classrooms.

How did this latest and most sweeping “reform” of American education come in mostly under the radar? Joy Pullman started tugging on a thread of reports from worried parents and frustrated teachers, and it led to a big tangle of history and politics, intrigue and arrogance. She unwound it to discover how a cabal of private foundation honchos and unelected public officials cooked up a set of rules for what American children must learn in core K–12 classes, and how the Obama administration pressured states to adopt them. Thus a federalized education scheme took root, despite legal prohibitions against federal involvement in curriculum.

Common Core and its testing regime were touted as “an absolute game-changer in public education,” yet the evidence so far suggests that kids are actually learning less under it. Why, then, was such a costly and disruptive agenda imposed on the nation’s schools? Who benefits? And how can citizens regain local self-governance in education, so their children’s minds will be fed a more nourishing intellectual diet and be protected from the experiments of emboldened bureaucrats? The Education Invasion offers answers and remedies.

JOY PULLMANN is managing editor of The Federalist and an education research fellow at the Heartland Institute. She lives in Fort Wayne, ID.

ENCOUNTER BOOKS

THE UNITED NATIONS is failing abysmally, and dangerously, in its mission. Founded in 1945 as a vehicle to avert war and promote human dignity and freedom, the U.N. has instead become a self-serving and ever-expanding haven of privilege for the world's worst regimes, rife with bigotry, fraud, abuse, and corruption, both financial and moral. Yet the American foreign policy community treats it as taboo to speak seriously about sidelining, supplanting, or leaving the U.N. The usual argument is that the U.N. may be imperfect, but it's all we've got.

In this Broadside, Claudia Rosett explains why the U.N.'s basic design means it cannot really be reformed and why it is becoming ever more urgent to seek alternatives. Rosett argues that it's time to break the taboo, and to bring the question of how to dispense with the U.N. altogether into America's foreign policy debates.

CLAUDIA ROSETT is a prize-winning journalist for her reporting on the United Nations, and a former editorial writer and foreign correspondent for the Wall Street Journal. She is currently a foreign policy fellow with the Independent Women's Forum. She lives in New York City.

Last in Their Class | James S. Robbins

Custer, Pickett and the Goats of West Point

TODAY'S GOAT, the celebrated West Point cadet finishing at the bottom of his class, carries on a long and storied tradition. George Custer's contemporaries at the Academy believed that the same spirit of adventure that led him to "blow post" at night to carouse at local taverns also motivated his dramatic cavalry attacks in the Civil War and afterwards. And the same willingness to stoically accept punishment for his hijinks at the Academy also sent George Pickett marching into the teeth of the Union guns at Gettysburg. The story James S. Robbins tells goes from the beginnings of West Point through the carnage of the Civil War to the grassy bluffs over the Little Big Horn. The Goats he profiles tell us much about the soul of the American soldier, his daring, imagination and desire to prove himself against high odds.

JAMES S. ROBBINS is a columnist for USA Today and Executive Director of the American Security Council Foundation. He is a member of the advisory board for the National Civil War Museum in Harrisburg, PA. He lives in Washington, D.C.

GOVERNMENT AGENCIES regulate Americans in the full range of their lives, including their political participation, their economic endeavors, and their personal lives. As a result, administrative power is a pervasive feature of American life. But is this power constitutional?

A similar sort of power was once used by English kings, and this book shows that the similarity is not a coincidence. In fact, administrative power revives absolutism, and on this foundation, the book explains how administrative power is profoundly unconstitutional. In one way after another, it denies Americans the freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution, including procedural rights such as juries and due process. No other feature of American government violates more constitutional provisions or is more profoundly threatening. As a result, administrative power is the key civil liberties issue of our era.

PHILIP HAMBURGER is the Maurice and Hilda Friedman Professor of Law at Columbia Law School. He writes on constitutional law, including religious liberty, freedom of speech and the press, administrative power, and unconstitutional conditions. His previous books are Separation of Church and State (Harvard 2002), Law and Judicial Duty (Harvard 2008), and Is Administrative Law Unlawful? (Chicago 2014). He received a BA from Princeton and JD from Yale. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and has been awarded the Sutherland Prize (twice), the Henry Paolucci/Walter Bagehot Book Award, the Hayek Book Prize, and the Bradley Prize. He Lives in New York City.

On Liberty and Its Enemies

Essays of Kenneth Minogue

Edited by Timothy Fuller

THIS COLLECTION of twenty of Kenneth Minogue's essays, written over a period of more than fifty years, celebrates the advent of modern liberty. They describe the conditions under which liberty and individuality can flourish and the threats to liberty's flourishing in our time. Minogue offers a powerful critique of political correctness, of ideological flights from reality, and of the deformities of study in the modern university.

"Ken Minogue never saw liberty as a statue, as an idol to be worshipped, but as a way of life—'not merely a situation to be enjoyed, but a capacity to be exercised.' Minogue also knew better than any of his contemporaries that the worst traitors to the cause of liberty often go by the name of liberals. This indispensable collection of Minogue's essays has been carefully chosen, edited and introduced by Timothy Fuller, whose understanding of the man and his thought is unsurpassed."

DANIEL JOHNSON
editor of Standpoint

KENNETH MINOGUE (1930–2013) was an emeritus professor of political science at the London School of Economics. He wrote books on liberalism, nationalism, the idea of a university, the logic of ideology, and, more recently, democracy and the moral life. He was born in New Zealand and educated in Australia.

TIMOTHY FULLER is Professor of Political Science at Colorado College where he teaches political philosophy. He is a leading authority on the thought of Michael Oakeshott, and a friend and collaborator with Kenneth Minogue for nearly forty years. He lives in Colorado.

Mollie Ziegler
Hemingway

Trump vs. the Media

HOW BAD IS the problem of media bias? The answer can be summed up in a few words: President Donald J. Trump. Whether you love or hate him, there's no question that Trump gained a huge amount of support for his willingness to criticize the media in harsh and unsparing terms. Yet, the media seem baffled by the fact they've lost the trust of the American people. They have responded by being extraordinarily defensive and doubling down on even more histrionic attacks. However, the American system has always depended on a strong and trusted media to hold those in power accountable. Journalist Mollie Hemingway looks at the impressive list of media failure that led us to this unique moment and asks: Is it possible for the media to recover their credibility before it's too late?

MOLLIE ZIEGLER HEMINGWAY is a senior editor at The Federalist. A longtime journalist, her work has appeared in the Wall Street Journal, USA Today, the Los Angeles Times, the Guardian, the Washington Post, CNN, National Review, Federal Times, and many other publications. She is a frequent guest on Fox News, CNN, and National Public Radio. Mollie was a 2004 recipient of a Phillips Foundation Journalism Fellowship and a 2014 recipient of a Claremont Institute Lincoln Fellowship. She lives in Alexandria, VA.

Past and Present

Gertrude Himmelfarb

The Challenges of Modernity, from the Pre-Victorians to the Postmodernists

“THE PAST IS never dead. It’s not even past,” wrote William Faulkner. In Past and Present, an eminent American historian and cultural critic shows the truth of that statement. The common theme of the twenty essays gathered here is the intriguing, often unexpected ways in which the past continues to illuminate the present.

Gertrude Himmelfarb helps us find a new perspective on contemporary issues through a trenchant analysis of debates and thinkers from earlier times.

The topics of the essays vary widely, from the disorders of modern democracy to the challenges of postmodernism, from the Victorian ethos to the Jewish question. The thinkers examined range from Edmund Burke to Leo Strauss, from Cardinal Newman to Lionel Trilling. The political figures who appear here are also diverse, from Benjamin Disraeli to Winston Churchill, from the American founders to Queen Elizabeth II.

Running through all the essays as a first premise is the conviction that the pursuit of knowledge and truth, however difficult or discomfiting, matters immensely in the “practical life,” to use Trilling’s terms, as it does in the “moral life.” Past and Present is a notable contribution to this endeavor—to understanding where we have been, where we are today, and where we may be (or should be) going.

GERTRUDE HIMMELFARB, professor emeritus at the Graduate School of the City of New York, is a distinguished intellectual and cultural historian. Her most recent books are The People of the Book: Philosemitism in England; The Jewish Odyssey of George Eliot; The Moral Imagination: From Adam Smith to Lionel Trilling; and The Roads to Modernity: The British, French, and American Enlightenments. She lives in New York City.

The Challenge of Islamic Reform

Islamic Reformers Speak—and the Obstacles They Face

THE ENTIRE FOREIGN POLICY and much of the domestic policy of the United States and other Western governments is based on the proposition that the vast majority of Muslims are moderate and peaceful, including those who are emigrating now in large numbers to Europe, and those who are already living in Europe and North America. But as ISIS, al-Qaeda and other Islamic groups radicalize peaceful Muslims by appealing to the teachings of the Qur'an and the example of Muhammad, it is imperative for these moderates to articulate a vision of Islam that can withstand the challenge of the jihadis, refute their understanding of Islam, and establish an Islam that is peaceful, tolerant, and compatible with secular governance.

The Challenge of Islamic Reform is the first major effort to provide that foundation. Veteran journalist Christine Douglass-Williams interviews the foremost moderate and reformist Muslims in the Western world, including Zuhdi Jasser, Tawfik Hamid, Raheel Raza, Salim Mansur, Qanta Ahmed, and others. She asks them tough questions about how they deal with problematic Qur'an passages, how they intend to get their message across to the Muslim world, and more.

Illuminating, engaging, and thought-provoking, The Challenge of Islamic Reform is an essential text for understanding the future of the United States and the West, and the implications of Muslim moderates' struggle for the free world.

CHRISTINE DOUGLASS-WILLIAMS is a nine-time international award-winning journalist and television producer. She is an appointed Director with the Canadian Race Relations Foundation (a Federal Foundation in the Department of Heritage Canada) and an appointee to the Office of Religious Freedom as an external advisor (Department of Foreign Affairs Canada). She lives in Canada.

The Devil's Pleasure Palace

Michael Walsh

The Cult of Critical Theory and the Subversion of the West

IN THE AFTERMATH of World War II, America stood alone as the world's premier military power. Yet its martial confidence contrasted vividly with its sense of cultural inferiority. Still looking to a defeated and dispirited Europe for intellectual and artistic guidance, the burgeoning transnational elite in New York and Washington embraced not only the war's refugees, but many of their ideas as well, and nothing has proven more pernicious than those of the Frankfurt School and its reactionary philosophy of "critical theory."

In The Devil's Pleasure Palace, Michael Walsh describes how Critical Theory released a horde of demons into the American psyche. When everything could be questioned, nothing could be real, and the muscular, confident empiricism that had just won the war gave way, in less than a generation, to a central-European nihilism celebrated on college campuses across the United States. Seizing the high ground of academe and the arts, the New Nihilists set about dissolving the bedrock of the country, from patriotism to marriage to the family to military service. They have sown, as Cardinal Bergoglio—now Pope Francis—once wrote of the Devil, "destruction, division, hatred, and calumny," and all disguised as the search for truth.

The Devil's Pleasure Palace exposes the overlooked movement that is Critical Theory and explains how it took root in America and, once established and gestated, how it has affected nearly every aspect of American life and society.

MICHAEL WALSH is a journalist, author, and screenwriter, whose work includes six novels, seven works of nonfiction, and a hit Disney movie. The former classical music critic of Time Magazine, he is now a regular contributor of political and cultural commentary to PJ Media and National Review. He lives in Ireland.

TECHNOLOGY CONTINUES to unlock new ways for Americans to live and work. To illustrate these changes, this book explores the promise of online platforms such as Uber and Airbnb. Unfortunately, instead of embracing innovation, many cities insist on applying antiquated regulations or completely banning these new services to protect special interests—at the expense of workers and consumers.

These fights go far beyond the sharing economy. To promote the benefits of new technology, it is time for states to step up and overrule cities when local policies threaten innovation. If cities are going to remain a driving force for economic progress, then states need to save so-called “progressive” cities from themselves.

JARED MEYER is a senior research fellow at the Foundation for Government Accountability. He is the coauthor of Disinherited: How Washington Is Betraying America's Young (Encounter, May 2015) and the author of Uber-Positive: Why Americans Love the Sharing Economy (Encounter, June 2016). Meyer, a member of Forbes' 30 Under 30, has testified before various congressional committees on regulatory reform. In addition to publishing hundreds of opinion articles, Meyer has also discussed his research on many radio and television shows, including the BBC, Fox, and NPR. He lives in Washington, D.C.

The Rise and Fall of Violent Crime in America

Barry Latzer

A COMPELLING CASE can be made that violent crime, especially after the 1960s, was one of the most significant domestic issues in the United States. Indeed, few issues had as profound an effect on American life in the last third of the twentieth century. After 1965, crime rose to such levels that it frightened virtually all Americans and prompted significant alterations in everyday behaviors and even lifestyles. The risk of being mugged was a concern when Americans chose places to live and schools for their children, selected commuter routes to work, and planned their leisure activities. In some locales, people were afraid to leave their dwellings at any time, day or night, even to go to the market. In the worst of the post-1960s crime wave, Americans spent part of each day literally looking back over their shoulders.

The Rise and Fall of Violent Crime in America is the first book to comprehensively examine this important phenomenon over the entire postwar era. It combines a social history of the United States with the insights of criminology and examines the relationship between rising and falling crime and such historical developments as the postwar economic boom, suburbanization and the rise of the middle class, baby booms and busts, war and antiwar protest, the urbanization of minorities, and more.

America in the Age of Trump

A Bipartisan Guide

AMERICA IN THE AGE OF TRUMP is a bracing, essential look at the failure of a great nation to meet the needs of its people and the challenges of the age—the collapse of public trust in government, a crisis of national values, from broken families to a loss of faith in the American idea itself. This crisis occurs just as the country faces an unprecedented array of fiscal, economic, social, and national-security challenges—out of control federal spending, frighteningly large deficits, massive gaps of income and opportunity, cultural division, and a dangerous world in which American power seems increasingly incidental.

In America in the Age of Trump, Douglas E. Schoen and Jessica Tarlov offer a definitive assessment of a nation in turmoil, looking beneath well-known problems to identify underlying yet poorly understood causes. Readers will confront the crises, one by one: of trust, values, and governance; of education, economic opportunity, and fiscal solvency; of national security, domestic tranquility, and race relations.

America in the Age of Trump provides a clear and comprehensive evaluation of the fundamental issues confronting the American future while offering bold, fresh approaches to meeting these challenges. Other books have described the specter of American decline, but none has been so comprehensive in its diagnosis or forward-looking—and non-ideological—in its remedies.

DOUGLAS E. SCHOEN has been one of the most influential Democratic campaign consultants for over thirty years. He lives in New York City.

JESSICA TARLOV is a senior strategist working for Schoen Consulting. She lives in New York City.

How the Wall Street Journal Opinion Pages Shaped America

THIS BOOK IS ABOUT how the Wall Street Journal's opinion pages became the leading forum for the discussion of political and economic policies in the US. The Wall Street Journal also is international, with print editions in Europe and Asia, translated supplements in many foreign newspapers and online products available globally. The opinions on its pages are thus also part of an international debate. This book goes back to the original editorials of Charles Dow and his beliefs in political and economic freedom, to explain how the Journal attained such prominence and influence.

GEORGE MELLOAN, born in Greenwood, IN, was a writer and editor at the Wall Street Journal for 54 years. He joined the paper as a reporter in Chicago, moved to Detroit and then successively managed the Cleveland and Atlanta news bureaus. He became a page-one editor in New York in 1962 and in 1966 went to London as a foreign correspondent covering Europe, the Middle East and Africa. In 1970 he joined the editorial page and in 1973 became deputy to Robert L. Bartley, editorial page editor and later editor of the Journal. He retired in 2006 but still writes occasionally for the Journal opinion pages. In 2009, he was author of The Great Money Binge: Spending our Way to Socialism, which is about the causes of the 2008 market crash. He lives in New York City.

Rebooting Justice

More Technology, Fewer Lawyers, and the Future of Law

AMERICA IS A NATION founded on justice and the rule of law. But our laws are too complex, and legal advice too expensive, for poor and even middle-class Americans to get help and vindicate their rights. Criminal defendants facing jail time may receive an appointed lawyer who is juggling hundreds of cases and immediately urges them to plead guilty. Civil litigants are even worse off; usually, they get no help at all navigating the maze of technical procedures and rules. The same is true of those seeking legal advice, like planning a will or negotiating an employment contract.

Rebooting Justice presents a novel response to long-standing problems. The answer is to use technology and procedural innovation to simplify and change the process itself. In the civil and criminal courts where ordinary Americans appear the most, we should streamline complex procedures and assume that parties will not have a lawyer, rather than the other way around. We need a cheaper, simpler, faster justice system to control costs. We cannot untie the Gordian knot by adding more strands of rope; we need to cut it, to simplify it.

BENJAMIN H. BARTON is the Helen and Charles Lockett Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of Tennessee.

STEPHANOS BIBAS is a Professor of Law and Criminology and the Director of the Supreme Court Clinic at the University of Pennsylvania.

How Political Neglect is Choking American Seapower and What to Do About It

THE CHALLENGES TO American security in the Western Pacific, the seas that surround Europe, and the Persian Gulf are growing. Meanwhile, U.S. military commanders seek more naval forces to protect America's interest in the safe transit of American goods, deterrence in a proliferating world, and the defense of our key allies. At the same time, U.S. defense budgets are shrinking. American seapower has not been as small as it is today since before World War I. Unless reversed, U.S. seapower will continue its decline into the indefinite future as politicians ignore the widening gulf between the cost of modernizing and expanding American seapower, and the resources devoted to this most strategic arm of the nation's defense.

SeablindeSS explains the dilemma. It looks at the consequences of neglect including the effect of increased deployments on families, global scenarios set in the immediate future, the views of America's most knowledgeable military officers, the anxious reactions of U.S. allies, and hard facts to show how a lack of political will is dismantling the nation's global reach and with it, our position as the world's great power.

SETH CROPSEY served as deputy Undersecretary of the U.S. Navy in the administrations of Ronald Reagan and George H. W. Bush. He was an officer in the U.S. Naval Reserve from 1985 to 2004. Cropsey is a senior fellow at the Hudson Institute in Washington, DC and director of Hudson's Center for American Seapower. He lives in Washington, D.C.

RECKONING WITH RACE confronts America's most intractable problem – race. In a balanced, uncompromising, and unflinching narrative, Gene Dattel outlines American racial issues from the beginning of the nineteenth century to the present, exploding myths about the South as America's exclusive racial scapegoat and examining the Great Migration north and the urban ghettos which still plague America.

Through profiles of people, cities, and regions, Dattel explores the topics of identity, assimilation, and separation. Reckoning with Race asks and answers many questions. After emancipation, how were blacks historically segregated from the rest of American society? Why is self-segregation still a feature of black society? Why do large numbers of blacks resist assimilation and the acceptance of middle class norms of behavior? Why has there been so little black penetration in the private sector? Why did the removal of overt legal segregation and civil rights legislation in the 1960s not settle the racial conundrum? Why do we still have the problems enumerated in the Kerner Commission report (1968) after trillions of dollars have been spent to promote black progress? What, if anything, should be done, to eliminate the racial divide?

GENE DATTEL grew up in the majority-black cotton country of the Mississippi Delta. He is an independent scholar who lectures widely. His most recent book, Cotton and Race in the Making of America (2009), links the economic power of cotton to the African American experience. He lives in New York City and Lakeville, Connecticut with his wife Licia and two terriers, Winks and Rosie.

Patriotism is Not Enough | Steven F. Hayward

Harry Jaffa, Walter Berns, and the Arguments that Redefined American Conservatism

THIS BOOK IS a lively intellectual history of a small circle of thinkers, especially, but not solely, Harry Jaffa and Walter Berns, who challenged the “mainstream” liberal consensus of political science and history about how the American Founding should be understood. Along the way they changed the course of the conservative movement and had a significant impact on shaping contemporary political debates from constitutional interpretation to the corruption of government today. Most importantly, these thinkers explain the deep reasons for patriotism—why we should love America not just because it is our country, but because it is a free and just country.

IN THIS WARM and intimate memoir Judge Wilkinson delivers a chilling message. The 1960s inflicted enormous damage on our country; even at this very hour we see the decade’s imprint in so much of what we say and do. The chapters reveal the harm done to the true meaning of education, to our capacity for lasting personal commitments, to our respect for the rule of law, to our sense of rootedness and home, to our desire for service, to our capacity for national unity, to our need for the sustenance of faith. Judge Wilkinson does not seek to lecture but to share in the most personal sense what life was like in the 1960s, and to describe the influence of those frighteningly eventful years upon the present day.

Judge Wilkinson acknowledges the good things accomplished by the Sixties and nourishes the belief that we can learn from that decade ways to build a better future. But he asks his own generation to recognize its youthful mistakes and pleads with future generations not to repeat them. The author’s voice is one of love and hope for America. But our national prospects depend on facing honestly the full magnitude of all we lost during one momentous decade and of all we must now recover.

Campus Rape Frenzy

The Attack on Due Process at America's Universities

K. C. Johnson &
Stuart Taylor, Jr.

IN RECENT YEARS, politicians led by President Obama and prominent senators and governors have teamed with extremists on campus to portray our nation's campuses as awash in a violent crime wave—and to suggest (preposterously) that university leaders, professors, and students are indifferent to female sexual assault victims in their midst. Neither of these claims has any basis in reality. But they have achieved widespread acceptance, thanks in part to misleading alarums from the Obama Administration and biased media coverage led by the New York Times.

The panic about campus rape has helped stimulate—and has been fanned by—ideologically skewed campus sexual assault policies and lawless commands issued by federal bureaucrats to force the nation's all-too-compliant colleges and universities essentially to presume the guilt of accused students. The result has been a widespread disregard of such bedrock American principles as the presumption of innocence and the need for fair play.

This book will use hard facts to set the record straight. It will, among other things, explore many cases since 2010 in which innocent or probably innocent students have been branded as sex criminals and expelled or otherwise punished by their colleges. And it will show why all students—and society as a whole—are harmed when our nation's universities abandon pursuit of truth to accommodate the passions of the mob.

Jay Nordlinger | Children of Monsters

An Inquiry into the Sons and Daughters of Dictators

WHAT'S IT LIKE to be the son or daughter of a dictator? A monster on the Stalin level? What's it like to bear a name synonymous with oppression, terror, and evil? Jay Nordlinger set out to answer that question, and does so in this book. He surveys 20 dictators in all. They are the worst of the worst: Stalin, Mao, Idi Amin, Pol Pot, Saddam Hussein, and so on. The book is not about them, really, though of course they figure in it. It's about their children.

Some of them are absolute loyalists. They admire, revere, or worship their father. Some of them actually succeed their father as dictator—as in North Korea, Syria, and Haiti. Some of them have doubts. A couple of them become full-blown dissenters, even defectors. A few of the daughters have the experience of having their husband killed by their father. Most of these children are rocked by war, prison, exile, or other upheaval.

Obviously, the children have things in common. But they are also individuals, making of life what they can. The main thing they have in common is this: They have been dealt a very, very unusual hand.

What would you do, if you were the offspring of an infamous dictator, who lords it over your country?

An early reader of this book said, "There's an opera on every page": a drama, a tragedy (or even a comedy). Another reader said he had read the chapter on Bokassa "with my eyes on stalks."

Meet these characters for yourself. Marvel, shudder, and ponder.

JAY NORDLINGER is a senior editor of National Review. He writes about a variety of subjects, including politics, foreign affairs, and culture. He is the music critic of The New Criterion. His previous book is Peace, They Say, a history of the Nobel Peace Prize. The author lives in New York City.

Bottleneckers

Gaming the Government for Power and Private Profit

William Mellor and
Dick M. Carpenter II <sup>PhD</sup>

THE LEFT, RIGHT AND CENTER all hate them: powerful special interests who use government power for their own private benefit. In an era when the Left hates “fat cats” and the Right despises “crony capitalists,” now there is an artful and memorable one-word pejorative they can both get behind: Bottleneckers.

A “bottleneck” is anyone who uses government power to limit competition thereby reaping monopoly profits and other benefits. Bottleneckers work with politicians to constrict competition, entrepreneurial innovation, and opportunity; they limit consumer choice; they drive up consumer prices; and they support politicians who willingly overstep the constitutional limits of their powers to create, maintain, and expand these anticompetitive bottlenecks.

The Institute for Justice’s new book, Bottleneckers, coins a new word in the American lexicon, and provides a rich history and well-researched examples of bottleneckers in one occupation after another—from alcohol distributors to taxicab cartels—pointing the way to positive reforms.

WILLIAM H. (CHIP) MELLOR serves as chairman and founding general counsel of the Institute for Justice. He co-founded IJ in 1991 and served as president and general counsel until 2015. He lives in Falls Church, VA.

DICK CARPENTER is a director of strategic research at the Institute for Justice and a professor at the University of Colorado in Colorado Springs. He lives in Peyton, CO.

ARE WE ON the cusp of détente with Iran? Conventional wisdom certainly seems to believe so. Since the start of diplomacy between the Islamic Republic and the P5+1 powers (the United States, France, England, Russia, China, Germany) in November 2013, hopes have been running high for a historic reconciliation of Iran's clerical regime with the West.

Yet there is ample reason for skepticism that the United States and its allies can truly curb Iran's nuclear ambitions by diplomatic means. Moreover, the West's current focus on Iran's nuclear program is deeply dangerous insofar as it fails to recognize—let alone address—Iran's other international activities or its foreign policy aims. Those objectives are global, and they continue to grow in scope and menace.

In this sobering book, Ilan Berman illuminates the multiple dimensions of the Iranian threat and exposes the perils of lodging confidence in diplomacy with the Islamic Republic.

ILAN BERMAN is vice president of the American Foreign Policy Council, with expertise on regional security in the Middle East, Central Asia, and the Russian Federation. He lives in Olney, MD.

When Reason Goes on Holiday

Philosophers in Politics

Neven Sesardić

PHILOSOPHERS USUALLY emphasize the importance of logic, clarity, and reason. Therefore when they address political issues they will usually inject a dose of rationality in these discussions, right?

Wrong. This book gives a lot of examples showing the unexpected level of political irrationality among leading contemporary philosophers. The body of the book presents a detailed analysis of extreme leftist views of a number of famous philosophers and their occasional descent into apology for—and occasionally even active participation in—totalitarian politics. Most of these episodes are either virtually unknown (even inside the philosophical community) or have received very little attention.

The author tries to explain how it was possible that so many luminaries of twentieth-century philosophy, who invoked reason and exhibited rigor and careful thinking in their professional work, succumbed to irrationality and ended up supporting some of the most murderous political regimes and ideologies. The huge leftist bias in contemporary philosophy and its persistence over the years is certainly a factor but it is far from being the whole story.

Interestingly, the indisputably high intelligence of these philosophers did not actually protect them from descending into political insanity. It is argued that, on the contrary, both their brilliance and the high esteem they enjoyed in the profession only made them more self-confident and less cautious, thereby eventually making them blind to their betrayal of reason and the monstrosity of the causes they defended.

NEVEN SESARDIĆ has taught philosophy at universities in Croatia, the United States, Japan, England, and Hong Kong. He lives in Zagreb, Croatia.

The Rise and Decline of America's Postwar Political Order

THE UNITED STATES has been shaped by three sweeping political revolutions: Jefferson's "revolution of 1800," the Civil War, and the New Deal. Each of these upheavals concluded with lasting institutional and cultural adjustments that set the stage for a new phase of political and economic development. Are we on the verge of another upheaval, a "fourth revolution" that will reshape U.S. politics for decades to come? There are signs to suggest that we are.

James Piereson describes the inevitable political turmoil that will overtake the United States in the next decade as a consequence of economic stagnation, the unsustainable growth of government, and the exhaustion of postwar arrangements that formerly underpinned American prosperity and power. The challenges of public debt, the retirement of the "baby boom" generation, and slow economic growth have reached a point where they require profound changes in the role of government in American life. At the same time, the widening gulf between the two political parties and the entrenched power of interest groups will make it difficult to negotiate the changes needed to renew the system.

Shattered Consensus places this impending upheaval in historical context, reminding readers that Americans have faced and overcome similar trials in the past, in relatively brief but intense periods of political conflict. While others claim that the United States is in decline, Piereson argues that Americans will rise to the challenge of forming a new governing coalition that can guide the nation on a path of dynamism and prosperity.

Unlocking Precision Medicine

Paul Howard &
Peter Huber

NEW MEDICINES in the pipeline can extend lives, save money, and even help stop disease before symptoms appear—if we don't discourage their innovators and investors by trying to lower drug prices artificially. Unlocking Precision Medicine explores the environment necessary for creation of these health care game changers, and explains how the marketplace can effectively make them more affordable to all without killing the golden goose.

PAUL HOWARD is a senior fellow at the Manhattan Institute and director of health policy. Howard was part of the health care policy advisory group for Mitt Romney's 2012 presidential campaign, has testified twice before Congress, and serves on a panel of judges for Celgene's Innovation Impact Awards. He is a contributor to the Forbes blog the "Apothecary," for which he writes about health care policy and entitlement reform, and is a regular columnist for the Morning Consult.

*PETER HUBER is a senior fellow at the Manhattan Institute, where he writes about drug development, energy, technology, and the law. His most recent full-length book is The Cure in the Code: How 20th Century Law Is Undermining 21st Century Medicine. Before joining MI, Huber was an associate professor at MIT. The Holiday at the Heart of the American Experience

WE ALL KNOW the story of Thanksgiving. Or do we? This uniquely American holiday has a rich and little known history beyond the famous feast of 1621.

In Thanksgiving, award-winning author Melanie Kirkpatrick journeys through four centuries of history, giving us a vivid portrait of our nation's best-loved holiday. Drawing on newspaper accounts, private correspondence, historical documents and cookbooks, Thanksgiving brings to life the full history of the holiday and what it has meant to generations of Americans.

Many famous figures walk these pages—Washington, who proclaimed our first Thanksgiving as a nation amid controversy about his Constitutional power to do so; Lincoln, who wanted to heal a divided nation sick of war when he called for all Americans—North and South—to mark a Thanksgiving Day; FDR, who set off a debate on state's rights when he changed the traditional date of Thanksgiving.

Ordinary Americans also play key roles in the Thanksgiving story—the New England Indians who boycott Thanksgiving as a Day of Mourning; Sarah Josepha Hale, the nineteenth-century editor who successfully campaigned for Thanksgiving to be a national holiday; the 92nd Street Y in New York City, which founded Giving Tuesday.

While the rites and rituals of the holiday have evolved over the centuries, Kirkpatrick shows that its essence remains the same: family and friends feasting together in a spirit of gratitude, neighborliness and hospitality.

Putin's Master Plan

Douglas E. Schoen

To Destroy Europe, Divide NATO, and Restore Russian Power and Global Influence

WITH EVAN ROTH SMITH

V LADIMIR PUTIN has a master plan to divide Europe, destroy NATO, reclaim Russian influence in the world, and most of all to marginalize the United States and the West in order to achieve regional hegemony and global power. Until now, Putin's unified strategy and vision for Europe has not been thoroughly discussed or articulated in any meaningful way. Putin's Master Plan is the first comprehensive attempt to systematically explain Putin's global strategy that could inevitably and inexorably lead to the breakup of the NATO alliance and potentially to war with the West. The West has no strategy, no plan, and no tactics to confront Putin's master plan other than limited economic sanctions, which have done little to deter Putin's aggression—and may well have encouraged and facilitated it.

Putin's Master Plan makes the case that it is essential to wake up to Putin's strategy to divide Europe, destroy NATO, and build a new empire in the former Soviet Union. Russia has demonstrated an extraordinary level of aggression, most boldly by its outright invasions of Georgia and Ukraine. Russia's terrified neighbors have been left without an alternative to Russian domination by American weakness and a divided Europe, and even once-stalwart American allies such as Georgia are on the brink of becoming part of Putin's new empire in Europe. Putin has made it clear that he sees NATO expansion as a fundamental threat to Russian nationhood, and he is systematically challenging the NATO alliance as well as the United States. So far, he is winning.

Campus Speech in Crisis

What the Yale Experience

Can Teach America

WITH A PREFACE BY GEORGE WILL

FREE SPEECH is in crisis on America's campuses. Rather than refute an idea with which he disagrees, today's college student demands censorship. At the slightest hint of offense, the weak-willed administrator complies and disinvites a speaker while a close-minded protestor disrupts a lecture. This disturbing trend threatens the very purpose of education, to expose the mind to various points of view. The sad message today's students learn: shouting delivers results.

This short booklet offers a timeless defense of free expression, first authored at Yale University in 1975 and all too relevant in the current climate.

Like many higher education institutions then and now, Yale had faced protest and censorship. In response to that free speech crisis, a faculty-student committee chaired by renowned historian C. Vann Woodward composed the "Woodward Report." Its wonderful prose boldly defends the right for all to "think the unthinkable, discuss the unmentionable, and challenge the unchallengeable." The Woodward Report is a model for all those who seek to stand up for the civil exchange of ideas and against the forces of censorship.

In addition to the Woodward Report itself, readers will find an introduction contextualizing the report's history and exegesis of the text by Judge José A. Cabranes and Yale Law School Professor Kate Stith.

NATHANIEL A. G. ZELINSKY is a J.D. candidate at Yale Law School. He holds degrees from Yale College and the University of Cambridge. He lives in New Haven, CT.
